Comment: The alterations to the original plan seem to be extremely sympathetic to people's concerns. I applaud English Heritage's commitment to both restoring the fabric and increasing access to the house. The park has been an ever changing dynamic since Henrietta Howard's day and the new plans are respectful of the past and present, while revitalising its future appeal. I believe the park has scope for greater numbers of users with no detriment to the local vicinity. The majority of users will undoubtedly be local to the area so the improvement to facilities, sporting and family, should be of enormous local benefit.
