Comments

Type of comment: Object to the proposal

Comment: Access to the site, both whilst building works take place, and then for the residents when they move in is not sufficient. Roads are narrow and difficult for large lorries to get down. The area does not need more traffic trying to navigate narrow roads where cars are parked both sides and often young children playing / cycling. The plans say there will be less than 1 parking spot per dwelling, the neighbouring roads do not have adequate parking as it is. As a mother of young twins it's important that I can park near my home and the permits have made this slightly easier. I know they won't be able to buy a permit at the moment but will residents have access to visitor permits and therefore use those to take up the limited parking spots available?
The plans would be more appealing if they provided much needed communal space for all to use.
