Comment: This seems to have been subject to cosmetic changes only with a narrow focus on the Lower Mortlake Road/Chalkers Corner junction. There is definitely scope for a more holistic traffic review of E/W and N/S flow, including a more sensible phasing of the traffic light system. Chertsey Court/Chalkers Corner is a pinch point with emissions from idling vehicles waiting for extended periods at the lights rising all the time. The knock on effects of the closure of Hammersmith Bridge and the re-routing by TFL of local buses has only added to this strain. I believe there should be a more root and branch review of this part of the road system. There are many good ideas from local residents both individuals and pressure groups which have simply not been adequately heard.
