I strongly oppose the application for the redevelopment of the Stag Brewery site in Mortlake principally for the following reasons:

1. The erection of houses up to 8 storeys high would change the appearance and character of Mortlake. No houses more than 3 to 4 storeys high should therefore be erected as higher houses would, in several respects, ruin Mortlake.
2. No proposals are evident for any significant improvements to the local road system which hardly copes with the existing traffic, particularly in Sheen Lane, that is bound to get worse with the increase in the population in Mortlake resulting from the development of the Stag Brewery site.
