Comment: Considering the amount of planning applications that are flagged for review due to minor infringements I am very surprised that a development some five storeys high would even be considered by LBRUT. Clearly this is out character with the local area- the whole skyline will be dominated by one standalone five storey building. You can't even see another high rise building in this area, so why did the developers even consider this? If the developers wanted to build such a dense development they should have chosen a more urban area rather than suburban Hampton Hill. The impact on Holly Road, Windmill Road and immediate neighbours will be considerable with repercussions across the whole of Hampton Hill.
