Comment: Thames Young Mariners positively impact the lives of so many young people. The Eikon Charity, of which I am CEO, take scores of young people to Mariners each year to participate in their programs. Every single time the young people return with new skills, new friends, feeling happier and more confident and a new found sense of hope and belief for the future. Given the mental health and wellbeing crisis amongst children and young people, this site development would enable Thames Young Mariners to work their magic with even more young people desperately in need of this support and these activities.
