Comment: I invite the member of the committee which considers this application to personally attend the Mortlake level crossing on any weekday at the time Thomson House School breaks up for the day. Don't go just once. Go, say, on three days so that you can be sure to see the press of people waiting at the barrier when the barrier has been down for while (it is down approx 48% of any given hour). This throng of people consists of parents and, more to the point, children. Now imagine the effect when the crowd is swollen by scores of teenage children from the proposed school. There will be a fatal accident. It won't happen until several years after the present members of the committee have retired. But it will happen and the present members of the committee will share the blame because they will have been warned.
