"As the decision maker, the Local Planning Authority will need to weigh up the planning balance of the provision of new housing in the borough which could only be afforded limited weight in this instance and any other benefits, against the loss of the greenspace and any other harm. Whilst the Council would not entirely rule out that a modest building may be possible in townscape/landscape terms, the planning balance is such that a clear case would need to be made to show that the benefits do outweigh the demonstrable harm."
