Comment: Dear planners, this would be a truly lovely addition to Teddington. The car park is large enough for a market and associated parking is available at the public car parks not a hundred yards down the high street. Any food smells would be no different from the general smells of the pub kitchen and I think it would really add to being a resident of Teddington. We are bereft of such a facility when our neighbours in Twickenham and Richmond have this available to them, also surrounded by housing. The pub is very conscious of its impact on the local community and yet provides a similar service during teddington lights up and Christmas, and for a few hours every few weeks this would not in anyway impinge on the aesthetic of the town. I can imagine that a few people may object, but then these are the same people who complain about being near a pub and yet continue to use the facilities. Don't buy a house near a pub if you don't want to have pub traffic. During daytime business hours the noise etc will be no different from drinkers on the veranda of the pub and I think children and parents alike would delight in something new in the village. I'm a huge supporter of this
