Comment: What got through Outline Planning was already against some 260 local people's wishes, Only the Hospital came out for the development, as they would as the sale of the land is presumably funding the school...The developers will of course push that to the limit, just as they are doing with the Brewery where they have also doubled the density since the first planning brief devised by LBRUT and paid for by our good selves through Council Tax (ie developers flagrantly exceeding outline brief)

There are to date 105 objections from local residents on this application which the developer has now submitted as a planning application for an increase in the number of units from 83 to 109 including an additional storey to accommodate such.

This is clearly overdevelopment on ground of:

- 1 transport/ vehicular access/parking with compromised access via Queens rd or narrow access off White Hart Lane
- 2 density
- 3 height- it is bound to overshadow and cause overlooking to neighbouring houses
- 4 consequent loss of greenery and biodiversity

With this number of objections IF LBRUT are mindful to approve it must go to committee, sothat we as residents can make representation.
